in her magnificent impersonation of
ELIZABETH
QUEEN OF ENGLAND, in the English version of Giacometo's fine tragedy of the

From the Daily Times.

Mrs. Lander's acting is simply admirable. We can receive things more impressive than the scane, at the close the fourth act, of the signature of Esset's death warras. If the true rendering of a deeply pathetic situation hapower to more, there will be few dry eyes in the house the drop falls on this act. She must be a daring actress who, following so qui after Ristori, undertakes the great masterpiece of that enied woman. Mrs. Lander has, however, succeeded in her rendering of Elizabeth added new lustre to the lors which have heretofore graced her career as a great late.

We pronounce it equal to that of our, perhaps superior in measurements. Mrs. Lander's Queen Klirabeth is a noble impersonation in that really graphic and thrilling scene wherein the queen signs the death warrant of Essen, Mrs. Lander pressed—as well as each emotions cuality possibly the property of the control of the

Mrs. Lander's personation of the title role reveals a velevated order of dramatic talent. The many excellences her performance found prompt appreciation in the form earnest application. [From the Evening Post.]
Mrs. Lander's natural ability, the thoroughness of professional studies, no less than her winning perso qualities, have pinced her in so high a position no one see to have expected failure in a character where to would imply no disgrace. * * The portrayal of the womanly feelings of Elizabeth was beautiful and touch bevoud desorption. * * With the fidelity of a true ist, Mrs. Lander gives her conception of Elizabeth's life central consistency which of itself should place her handing the world's best actresses. [From the Express.]

Nowhere was the actress untrue to her conception of the part, or exaggerated in her impersonation. The charm of the woman asserted itself throughout.

In order to accommodate the patrons of the French theatre during Mrs. Lander's engagement, arrangements have been made for omnibuses to run every five minutes from the corner of Union square and Broadway to the theatre, from 7 to 8 o'clock P. M., free of charge. OLYMPIC THEATRE.

INTERNAL NEVENUE MATTERS.

Commissioner Rollins having returned to Washington, matters at the Internal Revenue office yesterday began to assume their wonted appearance. There is still some excitement among the inspectors as to what will be the action of the Commissioner in relation to the parties against whom complaints have been made for dereliction of duty, and for alleged misdementors in their official position. It seems to be generally understood among them that a number of heads, will fall into the basket; but no particulars will be known on this po until the Commissioner is heard from, which will prob ably be early next week.

The Motropolitan Revenue Board was not in session yesterday, but will hold a lengthy conference to-day, when probably final action will be taken in relation to the reforms proposed in the present bonded warehouse system, mention of which was made in yesterday's Herand. The design is, if possible, to consolidate the warehouses, and instead of having over fifty scattered throughout the city, as is now the case, to reduce the number to five or six in each collection district. It is claimed that the proposed reduction will ensure a more prompt collection of tax, while at the same time it will bring the entire system more directly under the supervision of the Board. Collector Shook received yesterday from the Commissioner of Internal Revenue a communication relative to the appointment of inspectors for certain specific purposes, the gist of which is contained in the following extract:—

He reafter you will instruct each inspector (of spirits) in your district, that he shall under no circumstances inspect any goods for any person except upon your order, and that no inspector's certificate will be recognized by your unless the work of inspection was done by your direction. The practice of silowing private parties to select such inspectors as they choose to do work for them must be wholly broken up. Whenever any person desires to have goods inspected, he must give notice of the same at your office, and therefrom you will detail the proper laspector to the proferent the duty.

Persons desiring to have spirits inspected can apply at the Collector's office, and receive printed blanks of office, and therefrom you will detail the proper inspector to perform the duty.

Persons desiring to have spirits inspected can apply at the Collector's office, and receive printed blanks of application for inspectors, and, upon the approval of these inspectors, will be detailed for the work desired. As Collector Shook is determined to carry out the orders of the Commissioner, it will be useless for any person, in future, to make an agreement with a special inspector for the purpose above indicated, as the work done by such official will not be recognized unless the detail for duty shall have come direct from the Collector's effect of course there is nothing in this order intended to conflict with the assignment to special duty of any inspector by the Metropolitan Board, but its design is to prevent, if possible, asly collusion between the revenue official and the manufacturer owner of spirits.

The following very important resolution has been passed by the Board:—

Resolved, That the various transportation companies and passed by the Board:

Resolved, That the various transportation companies and carriers doing business in the Metropolitan district be and are hereby severally requested, upon the arrival over their lines of any distilled spirits in transportation to a bonded warelfones situated in any of the collection districts comprised in the Metropolitan Revenue district to forthwith notify the collector of the proper district of such arrival, and to make delivery of said spirits to said collector, or, and to make delivery of said spirits to said collector, or, upon his order, to his lading officer, and to no other person, except upon the special request to that effect of the Board, or of the Commissioner or a Deputy Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

The only spirure reported yesterday was that of tan
